Sometimes your technical infrastructure can be challenging – in terms of both cost and management. However, you don't want these challenges to pose a barrier to growing and sustaining your user-enablement strategy. With the SAP® Productivity Pak application by ANCILE, cloud edition, you can provide on-demand learning and embedded performance support to your users, securely and affordably.

The same software that has been licensed by customers on premise for years is now available in the cloud as a subscription. Now you can enjoy the flexibility of adding subscribers as your business demands.

SAP Productivity Pak, cloud edition, provides you with the full benefits and value of the award-winning solution, while eliminating the time and expense of installing the infrastructure on premise and managing it every day. You can focus time and attention on developing and delivering content to enable your users, rather than managing a server infrastructure.

No need to worry about upgrades because you will always be on the latest version, with the latest features.
